

Thank you to my fellow journalists, especially Sandy Close, whose determination and dedication to the People provides the opportunity to breath together.

As the Great American Experiment is being tested and the structure of our Democracy is being assaulted, the need for a strong Fourth Estate could not be greater.

Words can be deadly or life affirming. While the idle intellectual elite strives to cancel culture we are tasked with removing the knee off the throat of truth and redefining journalism in our own image.

Our Democracy is infused at a cellular level with Native influence. History related to the Great Law of Peace needs to be amplified to bring insight into the current national political dialogue.

No amount of alternative facts can alter this reality.

The swamp has yet to be drained as the reptilian brain gives way to an impatient collective consciousness that has been marinating in the wings waiting to enter center stage.

As we work toward the establishment of an indigenous media platform,

Let's Keep on Keeping on and cooperate with the Ancestors.

As Sitting Bull may have said in a digital dream.

“This is a good day to Write....Who will Write with me?”
